The most beautiful and remarkable film ever produced, and deals with the period shortly before the fall of the great Roman Empire. The theme is the most ancient, yet the newest in the world—the eternal triangle—in this case a man and two women. The stary is well-known, and has been variously dealt with by many famous and world-renowned writers, including the immortal Shakespeare. Rome had captured Egypt, and Cleopatra had sent her emissaries to pay homage to Mark Antony, but he demanded their Queen should pay tribute to the Eagle of Rome. Cleopatra came in all her barbaric splendour. With her wiles she soon had the none too reluctant Antony at her feet, and he had forgotten Rome, his duty, and his wife. Cleopatra had her arms like a serpent's coil around him. The war over, Rome recalled Mark Antony. The call went unheeded. His wife went to induce him to return, but all to no avail. Cleopatra had won Antony, and their days passed together in Compare Our newest in the world the eternal triangle in this case a man and two women. The story is ephemeral triumphs. This Picture has been made by the same firm which made QUO VADIS, and in this they have surpassed themselves.
